

Cargo Retention Rail System

Abstract

Disclosed is a cargo securing rail system that is molded into a floor panel as an integral part thereof requiring no additional fastening means. The disclosed cargo securing rail system maintains the aesthetics of the vehicle interior it is installed in while providing for the secure retention of cargo items placed within the cargo area.